

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

In a method of aiding portal site making, a plurality of mount files are prepared, one of the plurality of mount files is displayed in accordance with selection by a user, a plurality of image/information files indicative of various services are prepared, and the image/information files are mounted on the displayed mount file in accordance with operation by the user. Each of the image/information files is made by embedding information indicative of the contents of the various services in images for identifying the various services through digital watermarking.

09867618-053101